This applies to the original version of the cube, in other versions the colors may be different). This patent expired in 2000. To complete this layer there is more than one algorithm, but none is preferable to the others. The World Cube Association keeps and archives world records in the various official categories.[59] In 2004, the WCA made it mandatory to use a special timekeeping system called the StackMat Timer. All the cubes were moved 40 times and lubricated with petroleum jelly; the official winner, with a time of 38 seconds, was Jury Froesch, born in Munich, on April 11, 1972, two years before Rubik invented his cube. ^ Twenty-Two Moves Suffice for Rubik's Cube (PDF), in The mathematical intelligencer, Volume 32, Number 1 [collegamento interrotto], Springer Science+Business Media, LLC, 2010. [35] Following the expiration of Rubik's patent in 2000, other brands of cubes appeared on the market, especially by Chinese companies. [36] Many of these Chinese invoice cubes have been designed to be fast and manageable with agility (they are in fact called Speedcubes), and for this reason they are preferred by Speedcuber. [36] In 2005, for the 25th anniversary of the puzzle, a special and limited edition of Rubik's cube, with the official logo - Rubik's Cube 1980-2005 - printed on the central white square. On 9 April 1970 Frank Fox showed the patent application for his puzzle "3AfA-3AfA-3 spherical". The first lots of specimens of the Magic Cube were produced in 1977 and distributed in Budapest toy stores by the Polithechnika, producer of toys. When Rubik's cube is solved, each face has all the nine squares of the same color. Control of thesaurus bnfc 15690A,AA - LCCN (EN) AA,AA - GND (DE) A,AA 4076864-
